Aid For Kids is a 501(c)3 charity licensed in Maine and approved by the Combined Federal Campaign. Donations are tax-deductible. Thank you for making our mission possible!

Dawn C. Degenhardt, Founder and Executive Director, has been dedicated to bringing children and families together through adoption and supporting humanitarian aid programs for more than 35 years.

Dawn is the founder of several organizations, including MAPS (Maine Adoption Placement Service) which developed into a multipurpose agency while placing over 4,000 children. After her retirement in 2005, she, her family and friends founded The Degenhardt Foundation, now known as Aid For Kids, to continue providing humanitarian aid for children overseas and in the USA.

Dawn and her husband Ed are the parents of nine children from around the world. Their daughter Joy Degenhardt manages the Vietnam program and their daughter Heather Degenhardt Stifanic manages the Palaver Project. You may read more about Dawn, her family and volunteers, and the work they do on the website:

Vietnam - Degenhardt Foundation

Joy Degenhardt translates for Dr. Art Weisser during a medical mission.

Vietnam - Degenhardt Foundation

The Hoi An Children's Libraries provide not only books but also toys and many activities.

Vietnam - Degenhardt Foundation

Vietnam Motherland Tours provide adopted children and their families the opportunity to visit their country of birth.

Lesotho, Africa--M.O.S.A. Project

Belinda Laidley-Collias with sponsored kids affected by HIV. The project provides them with food, clothing, and education.

Uganda, Africa--Village2Village

In Serere, the Mosquito Net Program provides safety from malaria. Future projects include the Lunch Program--sometimes the only nutritious meal children have each day, where half the population is under 15 years old.

Haiti--Jeremie Project

Deborah Hage with volunteers and students in front of the teaching and decorative world map that they completed.

Jonesport, Maine--The Palaver Project

Heather Degenhardt Stifanic working with kids for the annual art and education project. The annual camp-out offers adoptive families a beautiful place to learn more about themselves, their families, and the world.

Houlton, Maine--Clothes for the County

Dawn Degenhardt and Desiree Ellis sort through new clothing donated for needy families in rural Maine.

Clearwater, Florida--The Kimberly Home

Assisting homeless, single pregnant women and their children and families by providing housing, counseling, and arranging for all other services.
